Opposing forces show up for Planning Commission rezoning hearing

By James Windell

Hardly anyone ever shows up for Planning Commission meetings. Dedicated commissioners generally go about their business with very little fanfare and a lot of tedious, professional work.

That wasn't the case on Thursday, May 7, 2026, when a regular meeting of the South Haven Planning Commission met. One item on the agenda drew a large audience to the City Council Chambers. That was a public hearing on the rezoning of 120 Baseline Road.

This contentious issue – whether to rezone 120 Baseline Rd and 201 Webster Ave from RM-1 and R-1B (multi- and single-family residential) to MHC (Manufactured Housing Community) – has been a focus for the Planning Commission for much of the past year. But this was the first public hearing along with the likelihood that the Commission would finally decide on the rezoning.

Since the last Commission discussion of 120 Baseline rezoning, Eric Rothner, the owner of the property, shifted from a straight rezoning to a conditional rezoning after he voluntarily offered eight conditions in writing. Among those conditions offered by Rothner was that there would be no STRs in the development and there would be no more than 24 manufactured homes.

Before the public hearing began, Commissioner Mary Hosley noted her conflict of interest as she owns property adjacent to the 120 Baseline property. She indicated she would not take part in the discussion or any votes.

Also, prior to the public hearing, a representative for Rothner, Dave Wiatrowski, spoke to the Commission framing the project as a legacy and a quality development intended to support year-round, single-family detached bungalow-style homes. He emphasized that each of the 24 manufactured housing units would be a minimum of 2,000 square feet with attached covered porches and permanent foundations.

Following Wiatrowski, Emily Palacio, the attorney for the project, argued that the project aligns with the Master Plan designation for single-family residential because the ordinance definition does not distinguish stick-built versus manufactured homes on permanent foundations. She stated that the manufactured home community supports a vision of Rothner's in which he retains ownership of the land and common elements, while occupants own the units. She stated that a seasonal mobile home park use was never the intent of Rothner.

The public hearing was begun and there were a dozen residents who voiced both support and opposition to rezoning 120 Baseline. The themes of those who spoke were familiar as all of the arguments for opposing the project had been stated previously at Planning Commission meetings. One of the common themes was that rezoning to MHC would shift key regulatory control from the city to the Michigan Manufactured Housing Commission. Another was concern about a reduced property tax base for manufactured housing communities. Some indicated a fear of future sale to a private equity group with accompanying rent increases, reduced maintenance, and residents being unable to move homes.

Rick Fleming, as an example of a resident who opposed the rezoning, said that a key factor for him was that "In addition to paying limited property taxes, MHC zoning will require that the City of South Haven cede control and oversight of 120 Baseline to the Michigan Manufactured Housing Commission." Fleming also said that "The property tax revenue for our City will be greatly reduced, even though the 120 Baseline residents will use and benefit from our community services."

One of the final speakers during the public hearing was Eric Rothner. He described being a resident of South Haven for many decades and he said that "I love South Haven." He went on to say that he has built several home nice homes in the City and added, "What I plan to build here is also nice." As he concluded his remarks, Rothner said: "I'm not here as a stranger. I'm here to build a community…I'm not here to make a quick buck; I don't need a quick buck. It's a legacy."

Before the lengthy public hearing was closed, Chairman Bob Sherman read a multi-page list of written public comments, all of which were opposed to the rezoning. When the public hearing was ended, the Commission entered into deliberation and the members reviewed the five required rezoning factors. The ensuing discussion reflected mixed views on whether the proposal was consistent with "single-family" Master Plan guidance, with several commissioners focusing on the requested district (MHC) rather than the building type. The Commission generally viewed the infrastructure capacity as adequate, noting the prior nursing home/convalescent facility and existing utilities.

Finally, the Commission voted on Resolution 2026-14 recommending denial of the conditional rezoning to MHC for 120 Baseline Rd and 201 Webster Ave. The majority of the Commission voted to accept the resolution – thus not recommending approval of the rezoning application.

While the Planning Commission will recommend rejecting the proposed rezoning of 120 Baseline, according to South Haven Zoning Administrator, Kelly Getman-Dissette, this is not an official denial of the rezoning request until the South Haven City Council votes on it. It is not known at this time when the matter will appear on the City Council agenda.

In a conversation with Eric Rothner following the Planning Commission meeting, he said that the next step is to go to the City Council meeting when the rezoning application is on the agenda and "See if we are successful there."

And what if the City Council fails to approve the rezoning?

"We are going to visit them in court," he said. "I don't want to do that, but if I have to, I will. I believe I did everything right. I went to the City before I bought the property." He was assured that what he was planning was appropriate.

"I'm really committed to this project," Rothner said. "It's really important."

South Haven house destroyed by fire, six occupants evacuated, one hospitalized

Several fire departments responded to a dwelling fire in the City of South Haven last week.

South Haven Area Emergency Services (SHAES) was dispatched to a structure fire at 849 Phillips Street. Firefighters arrived to a house fully engulfed in flames.

Mutual aid was requested from the Bangor Community and Covert Township fire departments A second alarm brought Hartford and Watervliet fire departments to the scene.

Neighbors reported hearing a series of explosions. The six occupants evacuated. The explosion sounds caused nearby schools to be put on a lockdown for a short period of time.

One elderly resident was reported to be using oxygen. He was later brought to the hospital for treatment of burns and smoke inhalation.

Michigan Gas Utilities was needed to turn off the gas supply to the residence. The Red Cross arrived to assist the displaced residents. South Haven Public Works and South Haven Police Department assisted at the scene.

American flags placed on 1200 graves

Volunteers placed American flags on an estimated 1,200 graves of veterans buried at the City of South Haven Lakeview Cemetery as a prelude to the Memorial Day ceremony to be held on Monday, May 25. The estimated 30 volunteers represented businesses and civic and veterans organizations from throughout Southwest Michigan. The Memorial Day commemoration will begin with a 9 a.m. march through downtown South Haven to the cemetery where a formal ceremony will be held.

Van Buren ISD earns top honors at Roadeo

LAWRENCE - The Van Buren Intermediate School District (VBISD) Transportation Department, led by Terry Lechenet, served as host for the 2026 Annual School Bus ROAD-EO, an event designed to showcase the exceptional skill, professionalism, and dedication of school bus drivers across the region.

The ROAD-EO provides drivers with the opportunity to demonstrate their expertise through a series of rigorous challenges focused on student safety and operational excellence. This year, 46 drivers participated in the event, each demonstrating precision, knowledge, and a strong commitment to safely transporting students every day.

Van Buren ISD earned top honors as the Region 15 Team Champion. Special recognition goes to Jessie Goodrode for earning First Place overall and Mike Kelly for earning Third Place. Both drivers will advance to represent Region 15 at the State ROAD-EO competition this June.

Van Buren ISD extends its appreciation to all transportation staff members for the vital role they play in ensuring students arrive safely to and from school each day. Their dedication, professionalism, and commitment to safety continue to make a lasting impact on the students and families they serve.

Artist creates mural in downtown SH

Downtown South Haven is adorned by a new mural featuring a postcard-style interpretation of the community and highlighted by the historic lighthouse. The 60-foot-wide mural created in recent days is on the east wall of new Consumers Credit Union branch on Phoenix Street between Center and Kalamazoo Streets. It was created by muralist Kevin Wolfrom of Grand Rapids who is well known throughout western Michigan for his vibrant color palettes that blend local storytelling with a contemporary style. South Haven City Council raises parking fees

By James Windell

With the adoption of an ordinance to amend Section 82-87 of the South Haven Code of Ordinances, parking fees and parking fines will officially increase.

At the May 4, 2026, regular City Council meeting the South Haven City Council reviewed the city staff proposal to increase metered parking rates and weekly permit rates as well as parking violation fees.

Previously, though, at the April 20, 2026, City Council meeting, the council adopted resolutions updating parking restrictions and parking fees. On May 4, the council was asked to consider a motion to adopt an ordinance amending the parking fees and the parking fines for violations at this second reading.

The parking fee violations are recommended to induce compliance with parking restrictions. Currently, the city's fees for parking violations are similar to fees for parking in neighboring communities. If approved, fines for parking violations would be increased to $45. If not paid within 7 days, the fine is increased to $75 and increased to $100 if not paid within 60 days.

With minimal discussion during this council meeting, the motion to adopt an ordinance amending the Code of Ordinances was passed.

Starting on May 15, 2026, the price of a weekly beach parking pass goes from $30 to $50. The city is also getting rid of the flat $10 daily parking fee. Instead, beachgoers will be charged $3 per hour for parking. It is expected that these changes will produce $800,000 per year in revenue. The funds will be used for the city's newly restored lifeguard program, which is scheduled to begin on Memorial Day, and other beach projects, like changing rooms and bathrooms.

The current three-year beach parking permit is still available for $80, but this marks its final year, with the City Council likely to consider future options for beach parking permits in the fall.

SH DDA approves facade grant program

By James Windell

At their regular noon meeting at the South Haven City Hall on Wednesday, May 6, 2026, the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) approved Resolution 2026-01.

This resolution was for approval of a Façade Grant Program which will be funded through tax increment financing (TIF).

As discussed in previous DDA meetings, the idea behind the grant program is that by making funds available to businesses in the downtown district the unique character and attractive renovation of the outside of some businesses could make the buildings more appealing to prospective tenants and increase business. At their meeting on March 4, 2026, the DDA voted to proceed with plans to initiate the Façade Grant Program after reviewing a draft of the program.

When implemented, grants would be available to property owners within the DDA district, who have a business in the district, and who are up to date on all property taxes. There would be a 50% matching component to the grant and funds could be used to update either front or rear facades of the building. The grant program would be under the auspices of the DDA.

During discussions at this most recent meeting, DDA Director, Sue Brock said that the program is likely to start on July 1, 2026. Brock also told the DDA that the City's finance director recommended starting with a $20,000 placeholder line item in the budget for the program. The DDA members seemed to agree that the $20,000 amount could possibly be adjusted in future years depending on the grants submitted and available funds. Brock indicated that if the full budgeted amount is not spent in any year, it does not "roll over" as an automatic increase.

It was also clarified during discussion that applicants must submit a complete package (including two bids, owner permission, photos, scope, and other required materials) before consideration. Awarding of grants would be on a first come, first-served basis and all awards would be subject to available funding, and at the DDA's sole discretion. The DDA retains discretion to award less than the maximum even if an applicant requests the full amount.

Some members raised concern that the resolution's wording "up to $20,000 per application" could be misread as allowing multiple $20,000 awards in a year; others noted that the annual budget controls total dollars available and the language is meant to preserve flexibility year to year.

A motion was made to approve Resolution 2026-01 and the facade grant guidelines. The motion was supported and passed without any opposition.

Brock indicated that there will be a public rollout of the Facade Grant Program which is likely to be timed with the beginning of the fiscal year for DDA on or about July 1, 2026.

Small businesses in South Haven given briefing

By James Windell

The City of South Haven's Downtown Development Authority, the South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce, and Visit South Haven hosted the first South Haven Business Briefing on Wednesday, May 6, 2026.

An overflow number of participants packed the City Council Chambers at City Hall to hear speakers from each sponsoring organization offer timely updates, information on business resources, and insights into visitation trends and seasonal activity.

Speaking first, Sue Brock, the Director of the Downtown Development Authority (DDA), said that each of three organizations would tell about who does what, how each group is funded, and how they support businesses. Brock said that the business briefing was timed to coincide with National Small Business Week, National Travel & Tourism Week, and National Economic Development Week.

Brock told the audience that DDA operates within a specific downtown district and funds projects via Tax Increment Financing (TIF), which restricts spending to eligible district-focused improvements.

She went on to say that DDA does not "put on events" due to TIF restrictions and the development plan. However, the DDA does fund and support such activities as displaying flowers in the downtown area and partnering to brighten up the city with holiday lights, supervising the ice rink and pavilion project, renovating restrooms at Dyckman Park, and improving wayfinding signage so visitors can better find parking and shops.

Following Brock was Brandy Key, Director of the South Haven Area Chamber of Commerce. She described the Chamber as a membership-based organization serving more than 460 members. Their mission, she said, is to build a vibrant and prosperous community and "have fun doing it."

Key noted that the Chamber has served the area for more than 90 years and is recognized across Michigan as a high-performing small chamber that serves South Haven, Bangor, Covert, and surrounding areas.

The Chamber does not receive grants or government funding and is funded primarily by member dues and event sponsorships. Their communications and services focus mostly on members, though the Chamber helps share broader community happenings when possible.

Among the kinds of support that the Chamber offers businesses is sharing timely business-impact information, providing business counseling and connections, and helping with certificates of origin for manufacturers to support international trade. The Chamber also partners with such organizations as Market One, Small Business Development Corporation, and the South Haven Regional Business Hub. Key said that the chamber also hosts Young Professionals group events "focused on building connections to retain young talent."

Jennifer Sistrunk, Director of Visit South Haven, talked about her organization. She said that Visit South Haven is the rebranding of the former Visitor and Convention Bureau. Now, Visit South Haven is the destination marketing organization for the entire county, including the Destination Paw Paw brand.

She said that Visit South Haven is funded 100% by visitors via a 5% lodging assessment paid by overnight guests. The core responsibilities of Visit South Haven include managing the destination brand and promoting the area regionally, nationally and even internationally. They use traditional marketing (such as billboards, print, TV, and radio) and digital marketing, including social media, "to drive traffic to southhaven.org."

In addition, Visit South Haven offers free support for businesses that include free business listings on southhaven.org. At the Visit South Haven office, businesses can drop off brochures and flyers and also pick up brochures.

Visit South Haven partners with West Michigan Tourist Association, Pure Michigan, Destinations International, Michigan Sports Commission, and Michigan Beach Towns regional co-op. Among the promotions and events that Visit South Haven runs and/or supports is "Dine on Us," "Cinema and Stay," Holiday in the Park, and their biggest event of the year the New Year's Eve celebration.

Assistant City Manager Michael Landis closed the meeting by encouraging networking among the attendees. "Meet someone new because businesses can help each other," he said. He reinforced the "three pillars" of the community – the DDA and the City, the Chamber of Commerce, and Visit South Haven – and emphasized that each plays a different role, but all three can coordinate on business ideas and community projects.

Landis pointed out that the City of South Haven supports helping navigate business needs like staffing and training, marketing challenges, market growth, and identifying grant resources. He ended his remarks by inviting businesses to engage and to feel free to call on the City for assistance. "Our doors are open," he said.

The next Business Briefing will be held on September 23, 2026 at the City Hall.

President
Team 5462 2Paw Robotics

PAW PAW - For Team 5462, 2Paw Robotics, the 2026 season was a masterclass in growth, tactical consistency, and student leadership. By qualifying for the FIRST World Championships in Houston, Texas, the team completed its third historic run to the world stage (2015, 2022, and 2026), solidifying Paw Paw as a premier hub for student engineering.

Technological Evolution: Taking it to the Next Level

The leap in performance this year was fueled by significant technical upgrades that pushed the team's robot to its highest potential. While the program has always boasted a strong driving and operating crew, two major engineering milestones sent 2Paw to a new level of play:

•Swerve Drive Mastery: The team implemented a perfectly tuned swerve drive module, allowing the robot to move with omnidirectional agility. This maneuverability was key to outplaying opponents in high-traffic areas of the field.

•Precision Autonomous Paths: The programming team designed incredibly efficient autonomous paths, allowing the robot to operate independently during the start of each match. These well-executed routines consistently earned the team extra points that often made the difference in close games.

Building a Legacy of Success

Throughout the season, 2Paw Robotics redefined their standard for excellence. Their technical precision was recognized by judges and competitors alike, as they brought home two major awards during district play: the Excellence in Engineering Award at Berrien Springs and the Creativity Award at Battle Creek.

On the field, the team set new school records for qualification wins at both district events. Their consistency made them a force to be reckoned with in the postseason; the team led their alliances to the Semi-Finals in both of their district competitions and maintained that elite level of play to secure another Semi-Finals appearance at the Michigan State Championships in Saginaw Valley.

Strategic Precision and Student Leadership

What truly sets this journey apart is a philosophy unique to FIRST Robotics: Coopertition®. This concept blends fierce competition with a foundation of mutual gain. In the tournament format, teams are randomly assigned to alliances that change every match, requiring students to collaborate with different partners to solve complex problems under pressure.

While 2Paw Robotics is known for its willingness to help other teams, the program has also developed a reputation for strategic precision. The team consistently gains a unique edge over opponents by being incredibly calculated with their partnerships. By identifying the specific strengths of their alliance partners and weaving them into a sophisticated game plan, 2Paw often outmaneuvers teams that may have more raw power but less tactical depth.

Central to this success is the team's commitment to being student-led. 2Paw Robotics takes immense pride in the fact that the students are the ones doing the work, running the team, and making all the final decisions. From engineering the swerve drive to navigating high-stakes alliance selections, every move is a product of student ingenuity and leadership.

Competing with the World's Best

This blend of student-led innovation and high-level strategy fueled a spectacular performance in Houston. 2Paw Robotics delivered a strong first day of competition, maintaining a high rank that kept them in serious contention for a playoff pick. While they narrowly missed the final brackets in a field of hundreds of international teams, their performance on the first day was the strongest World Championship showing in the program's history. Beyond the scoreboard, the team spent the week sharing engineering solutions and building lasting friendships with students from around the globe.

A Hero's Journey

The season was bookended by an outpouring of local support, including a community-wide police escort on Monday, April 27th, that saw the team off through downtown Paw Paw. Throughout the journey, the team's success was built on a foundation of clear communication and the ability to work seamlessly with others. By effectively bridging technical gaps and fostering a collaborative environment within their alliances, 2Paw proved that the greatest victories come to those who play the game with a smart, tactical edge and a spirit of true partnership.

2026 Season Highlights:

•Student-Led Excellence: Proudly maintained a student-driven environment for all technical and strategic decisions.

•Award Winners: Earned the Excellence in Engineering and Creativity awards.

•Playoff Contenders: Reached the Semi-Finals at both Districts and the State Championship.

•New Benchmarks: Set new all-time school records for wins at both the District and State levels.

VIEWPOINT

One Vote Can Change Everything – remember the tie vote in Hopkins

MIKE'S MUSINGS

MIKE WILCOX ■ PUBLISHER ■

If anyone still doubts whether one vote matters, they need only look to what happened last Tuesday in Hopkins, a school district in Allegan County. In what some say was a record turnout, a bond issue did not pass because because someone failed to vote.

Voters were asked to decide on a $110 million school bond proposal to improve school safety, upgrade classrooms, and replace the district's aging middle school. When all the ballots were counted, the result was remarkable: 1,091 votes in favor and 1,091 votes against.

An exact tie.

Because ballot proposals require a majority to pass, the bond failed.

That means a decision affecting the future of an entire school district came down to a single vote. One more person showing up to vote could have changed everything.

If that does not prove the power of one ballot, nothing will.

Local Elections Shape Our Daily Lives

Many people assume that local elections are less important than presidential contests. In reality, decisions made in school, primary and general elections affect nearly every aspect of our lives. To this writer, local; elections are actually much more important than state or national elections. We can't influence what the President of the United States might do or say, but locally you have, if you wish, major say on how officials act.

Voters help decide:

Who serves on school boards

How tax dollars are spent

Whether roads and bridges are repaired

Public safety funding

Local development and zoning decisions

State and federal representation

Although the August Primary and certainly the November General Election are months away, we need to keep in mind the importance of voting.

Primary elections often receive much lower turnout than general elections, yet they can be just as consequential.

In many races, the primary determines which candidates advance to the November ballot. Sometimes the winner of the primary is all but assured of winning the general election.

That means decisions affecting your community may be made by a relatively small number of voters.

When turnout is low, every ballot carries even more weight.

Whether you are concerned about your children's schools, your retirement savings, the cost of living, or the future of your community, elections provide your opportunity to help shape those decisions.

Democracy Works Only When We Participate

Voting is one of the most powerful rights Americans possess. It allows every citizen to have an equal voice, regardless of wealth or status.

The Hopkins bond issue is a vivid reminder that every single vote counts.

One vote can:

Pass or defeat a proposal

Break a tie

Elect a candidate

Change the direction of a community

As the August primary and November general election approach, remember Hopkins.

Remember 1,091 to 1,091.

Remember that history is often shaped by ordinary people who take a few minutes to cast a ballot.

Do not assume others will decide for you.

Do not assume your vote will not matter.

And do not stay home.

Because in America, one vote can make all the difference.

Sheriff's Report-Cyclist dies in motorcycle - truck crash

Van Buren County Sheriff's Office Uniform Response handled a fatal motorcycle Crash in Waverly Township. "The crash involved a motorcycle and pickup truck collision in which the motorcycle rider lost his life. The accident remains under investigation," said Van Buren County Sheriff Daniel Abbott.

Van Buren County Sheriff's Office Deputy Cody Anderson attended Police Response to an Active Shooter Instructor Course. Deputy Al Doorlag attended Control Tactics Instructor School. "Both are now instructors in these fields and will be able to pass their knowledge on by instructing on what they've learned," said Sheriff Abbott.

"I would like to personally thank everyone who attended the Reach the Forgotten Jail Ministry fundraising banquet. It was a great turnout and a great evening hearing all the success they are having in our jail. It was nice being able to speak with so many of the attendees there," said Sheriff Abbott.

"A shout out to Girl Scout Troop 609, Mattawan. They donated and delivered items to our animal control shelter. Thank you," said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled a traffic crash in Paw Paw Village in which a loaded Paw Paw School Bus was involved. "There were no injuries to anyone on the bus, however, the at-fault truck driver was transported to the hospital. It appears that a medical issue caused the crash to happen," said Sheriff Abbott.

Uniform Response handled an MDOP (malicious destruction of property) in Hamilton Township. The victim's truck was parked on the side of the road overnight and had the truck cap window broken during that time. Anyone with any information on this is asked to call our office," said Sheriff Abbott.

"Uniform Response handled a fraud/scam incident in Waverly Township. The victim received a call they thought was from Apple and were advised they owed money. Unfortunately, personal information was given out and later discovered it was a scam," said Sheriff Abbott.

"Our Narcotic Unit received information on a wanted subject in the City of South Haven. Detectives confirmed that the individual in question was wanted, and indeed he was on multiple warrants out of multiple jurisdictions. Detectives were able to get him in a vehicle and place him in custody. A search of the vehicle was done after probable cause was found, and detectives recovered numerous amounts of paraphernalia such as methamphetamine, prescription medication, digital scale, and several syringes containing an unknown liquid (which was sent to the lab to be tested). The suspect was lodged on the new charges as well as the warrants out of Detroit, Berrien County, Allegan County, and our County," said Sheriff Abbott.

"This past week was Correctional Officers' Appreciation Week. Our staff at the office that does that job 24/7 is truly one of the best in the state. It is a job that requires a lot of training, certified to do, and very stressful on a regular basis at times. If you think about it, they are taking care of individuals who are violent, at times are facing life sentences, etc., so they are at risk of danger every day they work. I am truly blessed as the sheriff to have the professionals here in that capacity at our office. Thank you, correction deputies for all you do," said Sheriff Abbott.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Stop Palisades from restarting

To the Editor:

I'm writing about the urgent need to stop Palisades Nuclear Power Plant from restarting. I've followed this issue for decades, working with many environmental groups and neighborhoods & cities by Palisades to get this troubled plant shut down. Former Senator Fred Upton (St. Joseph) along with the Michigan Public Service Commission forced the shut down of Palisades earlier than proposed in 2022, "because of an abundance of caution, there was control rod failures, and the plant's conditions were dangerous, for all of SW Michigan."

In 2012 the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) declared Palisades, after several serious incidents, lawsuits and radioactive leaks since its opening in 1970, "one of the four worst performing nuclear plants in the U.S." In 2013, three of the those plants shut down……

Holtec, a questionable New Jersey company, (N.Y. Times 1/30/24 Holtec $5 million fine), that specializes in closing down nuclear power plants, took ownership of Palisades two years later to clean up buried atomic waste off the beaches and the plant, to complete the decommissioning of this troubled 52 year old plant.

Instead, after not doing the job they were hired to do, they announced, with no public meetings or input in 2024 "Holtec is restarting Palisades, and will run the plant." Holtec has never operated a nuclear power plant, much less the "worst nuclear power plant in the U.S." Many of us that live around the plant were shocked and stunned by this announcement.

Longtime nuclear engineer Arnie Gundersen reported to the NRC in April 2026, that Framatome, Holtec's engineering contractor admitted "the soon to be restart of Palisades atomic reactor cannot operate more than 14.5 months without the probability of burst of dangerously degraded, critical, steam generator tubes." Gundersen went on to report that "Framatome used 50,000 computer runs to try for better results, but determined that Palisades cannot operate safely." Yet, Holtec continues to ignore these and other findings from their own engineering company.

Michigan's big three energy companies, DTE, Great Lakes Energy and Consumers Energy all turned down Holtec's offer to buy power from them when and if they open, Holtec plans to sell to Indiana Power. Why should SW Michiganders have this Time-Bomb in our backyard and on the shores of Lake Michigan?

This is an experiment, a nuclear power plant has Never been restored in the U.S., much less one with an appalling record. It is about waste, fraud and abuse. So far $3.12 Billion dollars of taxpayers monies, with zero oversight has been given to Holtec.

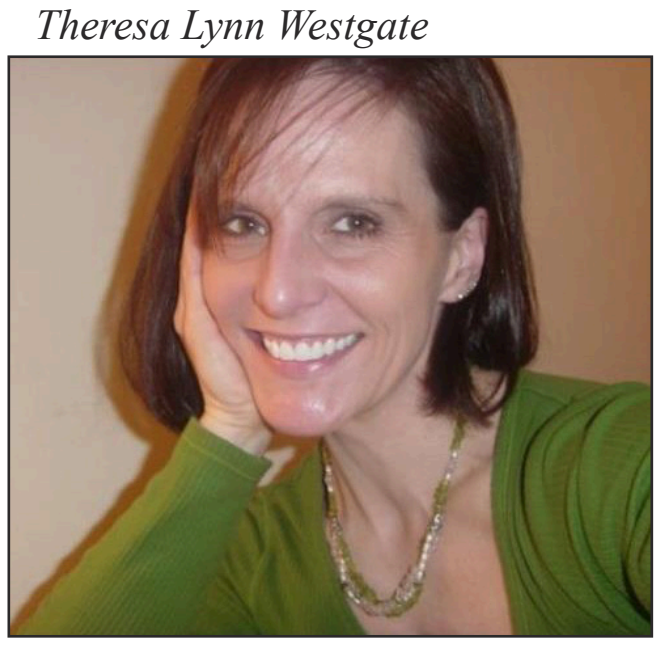
Theresa Lynn Westgate



Theresa "Trie" Lynn Westgate, nee Mullins, was born January 6, 1970, and passed away peacefully at home on May 6, 2026, in O'Fallon, Ill.

Although born in Wayne, Michigan, when she was young, Trie's family moved across state to Paw Paw, where she graduated high school. She furthered her education, earning her teaching degree from Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio. She met the love of her life while living in England, and she frequently joked about being Charlie's "British" wife. Prior to moving to O'Fallon to be closer to family, they were married and lived in Annapolis, Maryland (still a favorite vacation spot and planned retirement location). Trie's biggest pride came from being a devoted mother of six amazing children and a military spouse. She was an active member at the O'Fallon Y and a fitness enthusiast.

Survivors include her husband Charles "Charlie" J. Westgate III; beloved children McKenzie (Abdul) Basil, Mason Maxwell-Westgate, Andrew Maxwell, Abby Maxwell, Miles Maxwell, and Sean Maxwell; two grandchildren LaMiyah and Kai; father Thomas (Patty) Mullins; mother Judy (Michael) Toth; sisters Dawn (Mike) Davies, Peggy (Doug) Noble; and brother Michael (Tonya) Toth.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations are suggested to the Fisher House (https://www.fisherhouse.org/about/), which provides comfort homes where military and veteran families can stay free of charge, while a loved one is in the hospital. Trie volunteered with them for several years, and it was always important for her to help others.

The family will host private services. Burial is being planned at Arlington National Cemetery. Wolfersberger Funeral Home, 102 W. Washington St., O'Fallon, Ill., 62269, www.wfh-ofallon.com, is serving the family.

Foster parents recognized during May

By Paul Garrod
Staff Writer
news4garrod@gmail.com

May is recognized as Foster Parent Awareness/Appreciation Month. Van Buren County currently has 105 foster kids, (50 females and 55 males) up to age 18, according to latest statistics provided by Jennifer Patrick, Family Bound Executive Director and Region 3 Resource Team Program Director.

Patrick said statewide total as of April 2026 reported 10,011 kids in foster care.

Patrick said Van Buren County currently has 14 foster homes with available beds, with another 36 homes at full capacity. "While any of the 14 foster homes might have available beds, they may have other things going on and can't take in more kids," she explained.

"We try to keep siblings together, however, sometimes that isn't possible due to each child's individual needs, available beds or other factors," said Patrick. There are currently 42 children under the age of five; 25 from ages five to nine; 16 from ages 10 to 13; 19 from ages 14 to 17; and two are 18, according to MDHHS' Monthly Fact Sheet, April 2026.

Patrick said foster homes are currently needed in Decatur, Paw Paw, Lawton and Mattawan, according to DHHS, who reports that most removals occur in those four locations.

"Those are the areas we need more foster homes so we can keep the kids in the same community (schools, friends, etc.)" said Patrick.

Patrick said the longest serving foster home in Van Buren County is 13 years, with the newest home in Bangor marking approximately three months.

For those considering becoming a foster parent, they are asked to call Foster Care Navigatorat 1-855-MICHKIDS. Navigators are experienced foster care parents who can answer questions, help find an agency and provide guidance along the journey to becoming a foster parent.

Those considering becoming a foster parent can participate in pre-service training, known as GROW. The acronym GROW stands for:

Grow culturally responsive relationships.

Recognize children's developmental needs and the impact of trauma.

Obtain information and resources.

Work in partnerships with families to support healthy relationships.

Patrick said foster parenting requires a lot of patience, compassion and skill. Foster parents understand that the children that come to them are hurting and that it takes a long time to reduce that pain and change the resulting behaviors. You must be 18 years old, be of good moral character, be in good health, have an adequate income, and meet other basic standards.

Foster parents are not expected to pay all expenses for foster children. Twice monthly, you'll receive a payment, based on the age and needs of the child. Foster parents will also receive a semi-annual clothing allowance. Children in foster care are eligible for Medicaid, which pays for medical, dental and mental-health care. Many foster families will qualify for reimbursement for the costs of daycare, according to Patrick.

For individuals who would like to help, but are unable to foster, Patrick said there are several things that they can do including delivering meals to foster homes, taking a child for parenting time, taking kids to appointments, and just doing things with kids. Contact a Foster Care Navigator to help you get connected and raise the hopes of Van Buren County kids in foster care.

U.S. Senator Elissa Slotkin visits South Haven

By James Windell

Senator Elissa Slotkin stopped off in South Haven last Tuesday, May 5, 2026, to make a couple of appearances.

The ostensible purpose for coming to this area was to meet with South Haven leaders to talk about some of the City of South Haven's problems. But while she was here, she did a quick fundraiser for the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Representative seat from Michigan's 4th Congressional District now held by Bill Huizenga.

Although an interview was initially arranged with the South Haven Beacon, that was cancelled on May 5 with Slotkin's press secretary announcing that the Senator's schedule had shifted.

But after the afternoon fundraiser for Congressional candidate Sean McCann, Slotkin did have a dinner meeting at Clementine's restaurant in downtown South Haven with City Manager Kate Hosier and Mayor Annie Brown.

After the dinner, Mayor Brown said that she and Hosier talked to the Senator about their priorities and they told her with which particular problems they could use help.

While Hosier did not have a comment after the meeting, Brown said that she thought the meeting went well.

"Few legislators show up in South Haven, look me in the eye, and ask what our taxpayers need," the Mayor said. "So, I was thrilled that U.S. Senator Elissa Slotkin made time to meet with City Manager Kate Hosier and me to chat about housing, energy costs and coastal resiliency."

The Senator's press secretary promised a quote about the Senator's reaction to the meeting, but it was not received before the Beacon went to press.

Urgent Care in South Haven one step closer

By James Windell

An urgent care facility seemed one step closer after the South Haven Charter Township Planning Commission voted to approve the site plan submitted by Corewell Health.

The Planning Commission, at their regular meeting on May 6, 2026, reviewed the exterior building plans as well as the floor plans for the proposed medical building at 71989 CR 388.

The planned services, according to a Corewell Health representative who attended the meeting, would include an urgent care suite and a general/family practice suite. Building plans would allow Corewell to add various medical specialties over time. However, there are no plans for overnight beds as the building will be for outpatient and clinic use only.

The current underlying property owner is Peter Jobson of Excel Realty and it is expected that Corwell Health will purchase the property after all approvals are completed. The property is approximately 3.75 acres, and the surrounding area is primarily vacant farmland with additional commercial activity and a hotel proposed nearby. The Planning Commission determined that while 56 parking spaces are required, Corewell proposes 62 parking spaces proposed.

The Planning Commission also learned that in terms of stormwater and retention, that an outlet will meter discharge to the adjacent swale so the site does not discharge more than the pre-development condition – consistent with drain commissioner rules. Driveway access and utility considerations were also reviewed with the relevant agencies and all necessary approvals have been granted.

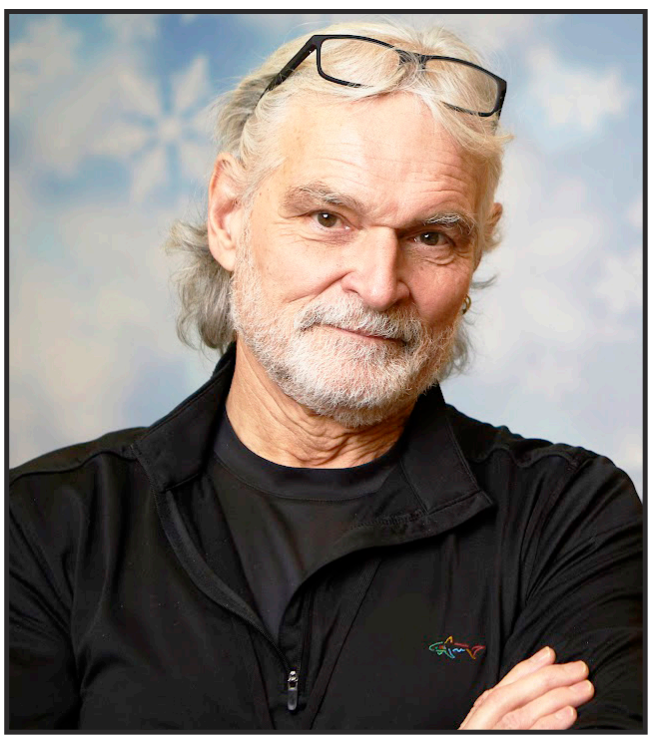
Although Commission members asked about operating hours, the Corewell representative said that hours haven't been determined yet, however, it is expected that the facility will be opened longer hours due to urgent care and the building may be open seven days a week.

The Planning Commission walked through site plan review criteria and found that all items were satisfied, including surface water drainage, driveways and parking, roads and utility service, signs and lighting, and landscaping.

A motion was made and supported to approve the final site plan, and the motion was unanimously approved by a voice vote.

Although there is no exact date for beginning construction on the nearly 15,000 square foot building, it is anticipated that groundbreaking might occur this summer with the urgent care opening in 2027.

Prohibition brewing in West Michigan subject of talk at HASH Annual Open House



By James Windell

What's the history of Prohibition-era brewing in West Michigan?

The one man who knows something about that subject will be on hand at the Historical Association of South Haven's Annual Open House and Member Kick-Off on May 23, 2026 to share his knowledge.

Keith Howard, a digital preservation specialist at the Kalamazoo Public Library and a former instructor of business communication and information technology at Western Michigan University, will present "Prohibition Era Brewing in Southwest Michigan." The lecture will be an exploration of the rich history of pre-prohibition brewing in Kalamazoo and the surrounding area.

Howard, in a recent interview, said that he stumbled on the subject almost by accident.

"In an article I was writing, I wanted to make reference to a brewery that I knew about it and I wanted to make sure I had my facts correct," he said from his office in the Kalamazoo Library. "In the process of digging into this brewery, I was amazed at how little information was out there and what I did find was inaccurate or incomplete. That irked me and I decided I needed to figure this out."

That led to research and learning more about the history of brewing, especially in Kalamazoo. When he published his first article, he was surprised that it was picked up by U.S. News & World Report as well as a British brewing history journal.

In his presentation at HASH, he will explore the rich history of pre-prohibition brewing and share what he has discovered about some of the first brewers in the area nearly 200 years ago. He will also discuss how the "local option" brought an end to the era in 1915.

Although he hasn't learned as much about the history of brewers, say, in South Haven or Van Buren County, he's continuing to investigate what other areas of West Michigan were doing in terms of brewing alcoholic beverages in the 19th and early 20th centuries.

"I have found out that Van Buren County was a dry county from at least the 1890s on," he said. "But I'm still trying to determine if there were any resident brewers in Van Buren County, especially in Paw Paw."

The HASH open house begins at 6:00 pm on May 23, 2026, at Forest House, 313 Center Street, South Haven, with themed cocktails and light hors d'oeuvres. The program will start at 7:30.

Annie and Rod Capps to entertain at Spring Concert Series

By James Windell

Annie and Rod Capps are a long running Michigan-based Americana/folk duo known for witty songwriting, rich vocal harmonies, and genre blending musicianship. The duo will be bringing their style that reviewers consistently describe as warm, rootsy, and emotionally resonant to the Spring Concert Series at the First Congregational Church, South Haven, on Sunday, May 17, 2026.

Based in Ann Arbor, Annie & Rod's sound meets at the intersection of Americana & Folk – all with rock, jazz, and bluegrass influences. They sing songs about broken things and poignant little ponderings, delivered with a rootsy vibe, a touch of twang and a soulful groove.

Their musical journey began in 1982, and over the years since then, they done it all; from hard rock to musical theater. The 80's and 90's found them dividing their time between original projects and cover bands. Their cover band, Foolish Mortals, performed nearly every weekend in bars and pubs around the Detroit area playing songs from The Pretenders and Sheryl Crow to Led Zepplin & Aerosmith. In the later 90's, Annie picked up the guitar again and started writing.

Their transition to "folk" was gradual but eventually they shifted to acoustic instruments, away from the bars and into the coffee shops. It was through the open mic scene they found a new community and discovered a world of listening rooms. All of this experience culminated into a symbiotic sound that reflects their deep and intuitive understanding of each other. From their home near Ann Arbor, Annie & Rod bring their music to folk festivals and listening rooms around the Midwest and tour from California to Maine.

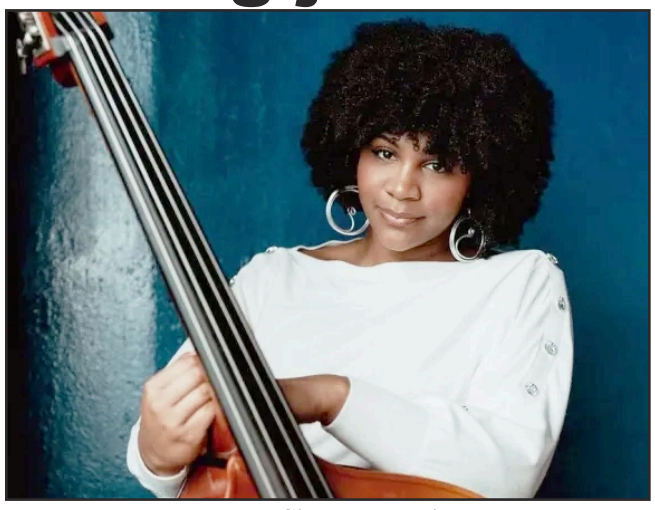
"It is our fervent desire to always give our whole heart and soul along with 110% of our energy to anyone who chooses to listen to our songs," says Annie. "We sincerely want everyone who has made the choice to attend one of our shows to leave feeling satisfied, maybe with a newly provoked thought or lingering chuckle, and always truly glad they came."

Annie is a singer, songwriter, guitarist, producer, and community organizer who has released multiple solo and duo albums, earned four Folk-DJ chart topping records, and is a two time Kerrville New Folk Finalist. Rod is a guitarist, violinist, songwriter, and vocalist whose playing anchors the duo's blend of folk and Americana.

In their concert at the First Congregational Church, Annie & Rod promise to present a concert of joyful songwriting and storytelling, mixed in with covers of Woody Guthrie, Joni Mitchell, John Prine and others.

Annie & Rod will perform on Sunday, May 17, 2026, at 3:00 pm at the First Congregational UCC, 651 Phoenix Street, South Haven. Tickets are $20 at the door with free admission for children 12 and under. For more information, call Diane & Lisa at (269) 637-3804 (opt. 5).

Rising jazz musicians to perform at the Scott Club



Laura Simone-Martin

Sequoia Snyder

By James Windell

You may not have heard of Sequoia Snyder or Laura Simone-Martin, but they are two young jazz musicians who deserve greater recognition.

On Sunday, May 17, 2026, both Snyder and Simone-Martin will play together in a concert at the Scott Club in South Haven.

Snyder, who goes by the nickname Redwood, is a pianist who has been gaining credentials as a jazz musician to be taken seriously over the past few years. She has performed with such notables as Kenny Barron, Cory Henry, Herbie Hancock, Dee Dee Bridgewater, Terence Blanchard, Terell Stafford, Teri Lyne Carrington, Patrice Rushen, Christian McBride, and Jason Moran.

In addition, she has headlined venues such Detroit's Dirty Dog Jazz Café, the Blue Llama Jazz Club in Ann Arbor, the Kennedy Center's Club at Studio K, appearances with the New York City Ballet, and the Detroit Jazz Festival.

In a recent interview, Snyder said that despite spending seven years in Michigan as an undergraduate and graduate student at Michigan State University, she has never visited South Haven. She said that when she comes to the Scott Club she will not come alone.

"I'm going to be accompanied by a bassist, Laura Simone-Martin, who is currently studying at Michigan State University," she said. "Laura is an amazing bassist and I'm excited to perform with her as a duo because I often play as a solo or with a band."

She said that she plans to showcase some of her original music along with some standards and some of her favorite songs from pianists she looks up to.

And who are some of the pianists she admires?

Taking a deep breath before responding, she started her list. "One is Geri Allen, who is a Detroit native," she said. "Then, there is Ahmad Jamal, also one of my favorites. Herbie Hancock. Cedar Walton. I could go on, but those are my personal favorites."

While winning acclaim as a jazz pianist, Snyder did not start out playing the piano.

"I grew up singing, actually," she said. "Then, I went to the Duke Ellington School of the Arts as a vocal major. But I started on the piano in my freshman year. I fell in love with the piano. So much so that I ended up changing my major to piano and started playing jazz and classical music."

Although born in Washington, D.C., she spent part of her childhood in Fort Myers, Florida. She was exposed to many different kinds of music by her father.

"Maybe not a lot of jazz, but I definitely grew up involved in church music and gospel music," she said. "My dad's a big music fanatic, so he would always play all kinds of music, like R&B, hip-hop, funk, soul, and pop. When I was young, I was really into Michael Jackson and Stevie Wonder. I always loved music as a child, but I never played until I got to high school and learned the piano."

Redwood completed her graduate studies at Michigan State University, earning a degree in Jazz Studies. At MSU she was mentored by such notable jazz figures as Rodney Whitaker, a University Distinguished Professor of Jazz Bass and the Director of Jazz Studies at MSU, Dee Dee Bridgewater, Jason Moran, and Diego Rivera. Along the way, she has won awards including the Most Inspiring Performance Art Award at MSU, the Outstanding Piano Award at the 2020 Jack Rudin Jazz Championship at Lincoln Center, and winning an Instagram performance competition to tour with The Internet, an alternative R&B, soul, and funk band from Los Angeles. Her most recent album is "Red 2 Go."

Sequoia Snyder will perform with Laura Simone-Martin at 3:00 pm on Sunday, May 17, 2026 at the Scott Club, 652 Phoenix, South Haven. All concerts at the Scott Club are free and open to the public, but RSVPs are requested. RSVP by sending an email to info@scottclub.org.

Dogwood Crappie

Just a slight feeling of a bump followed by another bump. With a quick snap of the wrist, the fish was hooked. Crappies might be my favorite fish. And while you can say any time is a good time to chase crappies, when the dogwoods are in full bloom, you can bet that the crappies are in the shallows.

There are days when a crappie can be as picky as a two-year-old. But for the most part, crappie can be caught with a variety of techniques. Some anglers like soaking a minnow under a bobber.

Others enjoy casting, which is my favorite method. Some like drifting, and others enjoy longlining or trolling with the lure 60 feet behind the boat. A few, and I mean just a handful of anglers in Michigan, enjoy spider trolling. If I weren't casting, spider trolling would be my favorite.

We will keep things simple in May. Success is a near-sure thing when casting a jig with a plastic tail or a bobber and a minnow. Location, much like in real estate, is the key to success.

Location will vary from lake to lake based on water clarity, weeds, or a lack of weeds and wood of some type. Hands down, if you have cabbage weeds in your lake, the crappies will be there.

Other weeds will hold fish, but the broad-leaf cabbage weeds will hold the largest concentration. Pencil reed or rice beds that stick out of the water are ignored by many anglers. That's bad for you and good for me. In our area, I can think of a half-dozen lakes with either reeds or rice protruding above the surface. Crappie spawn tightly to this challenging cover.

On some of our lakes, weeds are hard to find. Most often, these lakes are somewhat featureless and have dark-colored water. In these types of lakes, look for wood.

Wood can appear as a dock, flooded vertical trees, stumps, a fallen tree, or logs strewn across the bottom. Two of my favorite crappie lakes have two or three of these types of cover.

Once again, in sticking with the K.I.S.S. format, casting works great around any type of weed beds, including the rice and reed stick-ups. Hands down, my favorite lure is the Charlie Brewer Crappie Grub. Ninety percent of the time, a chartreuse or a yellow will be the color.

The best jighead on the market is the Slider Crappie Jigs. With this head, you can rig your plastic paddle tail weedless. When working with the rice or the reeds, I rig weedless. Fishing around the cabbage weeds, I normally rig it with the hook exposed. When working with just about any wood, we will rig it weedless.

What makes this rig special, you might ask? First off, watch how it moves in the water. It's about as close to a real minnow as you can get. Second, with this jighead, you can slide over logs, pop it off of a cabbage weed, flutter the jig down with pauses, or reel it in on a steady pace.

When the water is darn cold or when facing a severe cold front, a bobber and a jig work best. I do my best to resist using minnows, but on two recent days that small blade is all it takes to capture a bite. Remember that turkey season is still underway, and Bob's Gun and Tackle Shop has you covered.
